Loyalty to Home Institutions

If "Buy at Home" is a good slogan, what's the matter with "Attend Florida Schools?" Just at this time catalogs of schools located in different States are being studied by parents in various parts of Florida with a view of sending their children to some of these far away institutions.

Children of Florida will leave in a few weeks to resume their studies in distant schools, the job of catalog studying having been completed last year or the year before.

There are good schools in other States, but they are no better than we have in Florida. There may be larger buildings and more students in the schools of more populous States, but the opportunities for acquiring knowledge are just as good at Gainesville, Tallahassee, DeLand, Winter Park, Lake City, Sutherland, Tampa, Orlando, Jacksonville, and other points in Florida, as at schools we could name in other States. Distance, however, seems to lend enchantment.

Boys and girls who leave Florida and spend years away from the home State form acquaintances whom they must leave behind when they return comparative strangers to their own community. Whatever the calling is that may be contemplated by boy or girl, it is better to get a knowledge of it among the people they expect to live with.

No one can question the ability of the teachers at the Florida State University, The Florida State College for Women, and our other Universities and Colleges. Some are graduates of great schools of learning in America and Europe, and have taught in great schools. There are books of reference on every possible topic in the Florida schools. Every facility known to education is available.

The courses of study are comprehensive and complete. Young men who contemplate professional life, by attending our home schools, make the acquaintance and win the friendship of hundreds of the others who are to become the future men of affairs in Florida. At schools in Virginia, Tennessee or Kentucky, means an acquaintance with those whom the Florida boy may never meet again. The coming young men of Florida, graduates of Florida Colleges, have common interest in each other.

Conditions are different in other States. The laws are different. Crops and material resources differ. Manufacturing interests are different. Therefore the need of young men and women of a State being educated in their own State in whatever may be their bent, and at the same time familiarizing themselves with all the phases of life in a commonwealth in which they are to play a part. This will not be an easy matter if the character-forming period is spent in a distant region.

Newspaper Clippings

Thorn, in Palm Beach Post:—Punta Gorda Herald, with a desire to be eminently propah, says: "A respectable number of white men saw a prize fight here on" such and such a night. Wonder why Bre'r Jordan didn't say "A number of respectable white folks," etc., and so on? Was that a cool way of cutting the frosting?

Gainesville Sun:—In the recount of votes in three precincts in Nassau county Wood gained 14, Hudson 10 and Knott 1 for Governor. It is quite evident that there were numerous errors made all over the State in counting the votes cast at the primary election, and it is also evident that certain inspectors took special care to see that Sidney J. Catts was credited with every vote cast for him, but especially negligent in tallying the votes cast for other candidates for Governor, particularly the second choice votes.

Florida Times-Union:—It seems to be expected that participation in a primary binds Democrats to support the nominees, but does not bind non-Democrats. Yet the state committee was compelled by what seemed public opinion to rescind the resolution refusing participation to all but Democrats. The Times-Union supported the resolution and defended it while those who demanded its repeal now insist that Democrats must be bound by results that may easily have been secured by non-Democrats; where is the fairness or logic in this?

Thorn, in West Palm Beach Post:—Ain't it funny that democrats in this state will cuss Mr. Knott, will cuss Mr. Catts, will cuss the second choice primary puzzle—but none of 'em are cussing George W. Allen, of Key West? It seems to me that he is the man to get it right where the fashionable woman wears her string of pearls—but so far as I can hear the noise against Allen is about as loud as the hole in a porous plaster makes when it rubs up against the hide. Why not accuse George of a few things now and then to make matters more general? What?

Wauchula Advocate:—We are pleased to see the Tampa Times waging a war against the pardoning of criminals. Under our system of jurisprudence a criminal is given undue advantages of escaping justice through technicalities, and after the commonwealth convicts him under this handicap justice is further outraged by the pardoning board. The public seems to forget the victim and let all their sympathies go to the
